

Home Builders Institute

Residential Log Home & Timber Home Specialization Course

This four-hour course is designed to familiarize experienced superintendents and home builders with the intricacies of log home construction. Because the craft of constructing a log home is different than traditional construction, construction professionals can benefit greatly from an in-depth look at building log homes.